GIVES COMMERCE COURT KNOCKOUT

House Democrats Agree to Abolish Tribunal.

SPEAKER CLARK LEADS FIGHT

Representative Broussard of Louisiana, Champion of the Court, Precipitates Action—Caucus Also Rejects Plan for Creation of Budget Committee to Control All Appropriations.

Washington, June 26.—House Democrats in caucus agreed upon abolition of the commerce court as a party policy and, turning deaf ears to pleas from their leaders, rejected a plan for the creation of a budget committee to control all appropriations.

Representative Broussard of Louisiana, champion of the commerce court, precipitated caucus action on the mooted question by offering a resolution to authorize hearings of the Sims bill to abolish the court.

Speaker Clark denounced the tribunal as useless and expensive and Representative Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, offered a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the caucus that the court be abolished during the present session. The resolution was adopted by viva voce vote.

Democratic Leader Underwood led the fight for the budget plan and had the support of Speaker Clark, Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, and other house leaders.

Mr. Underwood declared that appropriations were running beyond bounds under the present system.

Opposition to the proposition developed by Representatives Tribble and Hardwick of Georgia. Representative Tribble insisted that a budget committee centralizing control of appropriations among committee chairmen and other ranking members would constitute the "most gigantic trust ever formed."

Mr. Hardwick's resolution to lay the plan on the table was carried, 95 to 81.

SCORES RETENTION POLICY

Manuel Guezon Resigns From Philippine Society.

Washington, June 26.—Manuel Guezon, resident commissioner for the Philippines in congress, has resigned from the executive committee of the Philippine society and also as a member, because he is not in sympathy with the purpose of the society nor with the course pursued in the affairs of the islands.

Former President Taft, now a Yale university professor, is the honorary president of the organization; the executive committee is General Luke Wright, former governor general of the islands.

Guezon, in his letter of resignation, writes that he joined the society with the honest belief that he could aid in the promotion of its announced purpose, "to create a more sympathetic interest between the American and Philippine people."

He soon suspected, he goes on to say, that the real object was to create a public opinion in favor of the indefinite retention of the islands by the United States.

WILSON EXPLAINS HIS VIEWS

Talks Currency With Republican and Democratic Senators.

Washington, June 26.—President Wilson had about the cabinet table at the White House the members of the senate committee on banking and currency, Democrats and Republicans, for a general discussion of the currency question.

The conference, similar to the one held last week with Democratic members of the house committee on banking and currency, gave the president an opportunity to explain his views on the need of legislation during the present session and to go over to some extent the provisions of the administration measure.

CYCLONE AT MINOT.

Minot, N. D., June 26.—Many buildings were damaged and the half completed walls of the power station at the Minot normal school were blown down by a cyclonic storm that struck this city. The main building of the normal school was among those heavily damaged.

PRESIDENT WINS CAUCUS VICTORY

Democratic Senators Approve Free Wool and Sugar.

SIX VOTES IN OPPOSITION

Sugar Schedule Is Acted Upon by a Vote of 40 to 6 and the Free Wool Provision by 41 to 6—No Attempt Is Made to Bind Members, That Question Coming Up When Entire Bill Has Been Passed Upon.

Washington, June 26.—Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool are now established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved by the Democratic caucus of the senate after a two-day fight.

The sugar schedule was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw wool swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6.

This is a ratification of President Wilson's tariff policy, he having insisted upon the wool and sugar propositions. When the fight of the anti-free sugar and anti-free wool Democrats was getting hot the president issued a public statement declaring that any suggestion of compromise on his wool and sugar schedule ideas was out of the question and later he stirred all administration leaders to action when he made his charge about the existence of an "insidious lobby."

The six Democratic senators who voted against free sugar on the final vote approving the schedule were Hitchcock, Nebraska; Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafroth, Colorado; Walsh, Montana.

The six who opposed free raw wool to the end were Chamberlain, Oregon; Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafroth and Walsh. No attempt was made in the caucus to bind the members to the action of the caucus. The question will come up when the entire bill has been passed upon.

MINERS CALLED ON STRIKE

Fifteen Thousand Men Affected by the Order.

Charleston, W. Va., June 26.—An official call for a strike of the miners in the New River coal fields was issued from the local headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. Fifteen thousand men are employed in that field. The strike order is effective July 1.

Miners also are expected to strike in Cabin creek field, while conditions in the Paint creek district are uncertain.

The strike order is signed by the officials of district No. 29, United Mine Workers of America.

The news spread rapidly. Coal operators in the New River field heard it with mixed feelings. It is said they have asked that the notices be recalled in the hope of reaching some terms which will avoid a strike.

FIERCE BATTLE IN PROGRESS

Servian Artillery Goes Into Action and Both Forces Suffer.

Belgrade, Serbia, June 26.—Later reports from the scene of the Bulgarian attack on the Servian forces, entrenched in Macedonia, said that the Servian artillery had gone into action and a fierce battle was in progress in which both sides had suffered considerable losses.

The Bulgarian attack on the Servians has created a dangerous state of excitement here.

The newspapers publish special editions declaring in large type "war has begun." The streets and cafes are filled with excited crowds.

KILLS HUSBAND AND SELF

Spokane Woman's Jealousy Believed Motive for Double Crime.

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—Frank Fromme, champion revolver shot of the United States in 1909, and his wife were found dead in a tent back of their home here.

From a note in the dead woman's handwriting the authorities believe Mrs. Fromme shot her husband through jealousy and then committed suicide.

In the note two young women of this city are named as the cause of the tragedy.

Mead of Boston, secretary of the world peace foundation.

ANOTHER FEDERAL ATTORNEY IS OUT

Assistant to Prosecutor McNab Is Removed.

San Francisco, June 26.—Clayton Herrington, federal investigator of white slave cases for the United States department of justice who gathered the evidence in the Diggins-Cammetti cases and who called upon General McReynolds from office for delaying trials, was suspended from office on an order from Washington. The order was signed by A. B. Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice. Herrington resisted McNab in preparing the white slave cases.

"McReynolds' explanation is pitiful," said Herrington. "He protests that he is 'profoundly conscious that his actions were free from unworthy motives.' So was Lord Bacon, who accepted bribe money because it would not influence him. There are influences other than financial ones." "McReynolds' excuse is that the 'facts were not fresh in his memory' and he blames McNab for not jogging it a second time. McReynolds needs a better memory, as much as the president needs a better attorney general."

SUN DANCE CAUSES TRAGEDY

Utah Brave Murders Young Squaw and Kills Self.

Vernal, Utah, June 26.—Crazed with jealousy while the sun dance, the greatest of the Ute Indian festivals, was in progress Tim Inchwitch shot and killed his squaw and then fired a bullet into his own head. As the braves were dancing Inchwitch's squaw approached the pole around which they were holding their festivities and placed a bundle of sweets at its foot.

A young brave bent over, as if to take some of the sweets, greatly enraging Inchwitch. The squaw noticed his anger and ran away. Inchwitch followed and shot her dead. The Indian picked up his dead squaw, carried her to his tepee and then killed himself.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 26.—With seventeen known to be dead, eighteen missing and a score in hospitals for whose recovery no hope is entertained the ultimate total victims of fire and explosion that wrecked the big plant of the Husted Milling and Elevating company on Tuesday will likely exceed fifty.

The police, working with company officials in checking up the list of employees, revised their estimate of twenty-eight missing by reducing it to eighteen.

Albany, N. Y., June 26.—At the request of Governor Sulzer the legislature decided to hear charges preferred by John A. Connolly, a New York contractor, against Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalen and fixed June 30 for beginning the investigation.

Connolly alleged that before his elevation to the supreme court bench Justice Cohalen accepted approximately 55 per cent of profits Connolly realized from city work obtained for him through Cohalen's influence.

LOBBY THROTTLE IS THROWN OPEN

Quiz Reaching Wider Latitude Than Was Anticipated.

COMMITTEE GETTING WISER

Indian Problems Vex Mississippi Senators—Some Choctaws Rich and Prosperous, While Others Are Poor—Secretary Tumulty Becomes a Doctor. President Puzzles Newspaper Men.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 26.—[Special.]—They are going to throw the throttle wide open and let everybody have a chance to say what he desires at the lobby investigation. There has been no limit from the very beginning, but the committee has been given still wider latitude than when it first started. Like all such committees, it has been finding much that was known to exist, save that it was not known officially.

We all knew that there was a lobby for sugar protection and for free sugar and for and against almost every other feature of the tariff legislation where great interests were involved. No one knew how much money was being spent, however, until the reluctant witnesses told the committee on the witness stand. In that regard the committee is accomplishing results. Chairman Overman lets everything in and does not cramp those who cross examine witnesses.

Never Ending Indian Problems.

One might think that some of the problems relating to the Indians might be settled, but it seems that the older the treaties the more complicated are the questions. When the Indian appropriation bill passed the senate Senators Williams and Vardaman of Mississippi made earnest pleas for the Choctaws of that state, claiming that they had been unfairly treated in an agreement made as far back as 1830. Quite a number of these Indians did not go to Indian territory. Now they are very poor, while the Choctaws of Indian territory, or Oklahoma, are rich and prosperous.

Tumulty's Degree.

Joseph Patrick Tumulty received a degree from a Jersey institution, one of those L. D. things which allow him to take the title of doctor. The first man to see him the morning after said:

"Hello, doctor; how about it?"

"Fine," replied Tumulty. "Had a great time; was all decked out in those mortarboard hats and gown and things. It was simply immense." They came a string of callers. Everybody went into Tumulty's office, and everybody called him "doctor," "doc" or "M. D." Along toward 11 o'clock Tumulty began to feel bored. By 12 o'clock the man who called him "doctor" was told to go to a warmer place than Washington.

How Much Does He Tell?

Twice a week the president receives the Washington newspaper men. He places no limit upon them. They ask all the questions they want to, the kind they want to, and if they do not ask real questions bringing out news it is their fault. The president answers that he "doesn't know" or that he "can't say as to that," or he may say "Yes" or "No" to some questions. After fifteen minutes of rapid fire questions the newspaper men file out and ask each other:

"Did you get any news out of that?" "What did he really say that we can print?" "Did anything really develop?" or queries to the same effect.

The fact is the president tells just what he wants to tell, and the best news which has developed at these "quizzing bees" has been skillfully put out by the president himself regardless of questions asked.

Give the West a Chance.

They will never make a conservationist out of Senator Mark Smith of Arizona. He wants to raise the lid, throw open the gates in Alaska and other western regions and let them be developed. Mark has been a western man for more than a third of a century. Most of the time he lived in a territory, and he knows that developing a territory even under favorable conditions is slow work. He takes the ground that the west had been developed successfully before there was a conservation movement, and if the movement had started fifty years ago there would be mighty little development west of the Missouri river.

Looks and Feelings.

"Senator, you are looking remarkably well," remarked a man greeting Senator Tillman in the corridor.

"Well, it's good to hear you say so," replied the South Carolina veteran. "But what makes me so mad is to look well and not feel well enough to go in there and tear up things like I used to a few years ago."

And those who know the old warrior understand just how he latches to break loose as he did during the early years of his senate service.

Like a Boy at School.

When Senator Lane of Oregon wants recognition from Vice President Marshall he raises his right hand high in the air, just as a boy at school does to attract the attention of the teacher. He looks as if he was reaching for a line drive in a baseball game.

Unchanged Diet.

"Anything new at your boarding house?" "Not a thing, either grub or gossip."—Washington Herald.

RICHARD BARTHOLDT.

Again Chosen President of the Interparliamentary Union.

Washington, June 26.—Endorsement of Secretary Bryan's peace plan and the re-election for the tenth time of Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri as president featured the annual meeting here of the American group of the Interparliamentary union.

ADMITS WRONGDOING AND ENDS HER LIFE

North Dakota Woman Implicates Game Warden.

Ryder, N. D., June 26.—Mrs. James H. Griffin, wife of one of the best known physicians in this part of the state, sobbed out a confession in the presence of her husband, her parents and Mrs. George F. Hart, wife of the man she implicated. Mrs. Griffin is now dead by her own hand. Mr. Hart, who is game warden for the Northern district of the state and a prominent druggist, is under arrest on a statutory charge and two little children are crying for the mother that is gone.

Gossip has connected the names of Mr. Hart and Mrs. Griffin for more than a year. Neither family, however, seemed aware of it.

When word of it reached Mrs. Hart, Whether Dr. Griffin also had heard anything is not known. But a conference by arrangement apparently was called at the Griffin residence.

With her husband, parents and Mrs. Hart facing her the story was repeated to Mrs. Griffin. At first she denied it, but her accusers demanded an explanation. Mrs. Hart cited incidents, forced trivial admissions and demanded others.

Mrs. Griffin broke down and began the narrative. Between fits of weeping she told all the details. Several hours later she committed suicide by shooting.

FATE IN HANDS OF THE JURY

W. T. Anderson Accused of Killing Clarence Funk.

Washburn, N. D., June 26.—The case of Walfred T. Anderson, charged with the murder of Clarence Funk, a former St. Paul bank employee, was placed in the hands of the jury after a lengthy charge by Judge Crawford. Judge Crawford allowed for verdicts from murder in the first degree to manslaughter in the second degree, this feature being a distinct surprise to both the prosecution and the defense, as either a first degree murder verdict or none at all had been expected.

PLAN MARKET NEWS SERVICE

Federal Bureau Will Report Prices for Benefit of Truck Gardeners.

Washington, June 26.—A market news service for farmers and truck gardeners who raise perishable products may be established by the recently created office of markets of the department of agriculture.

The feasibility of such a service is to be studied by a specialist of the office. The prices received by producers, the cost of transportation and storage, change of ownership, accumulated charges, profit and other elements will be investigated.

Other specialists are to give attention to co-operative organizations of producers and consumers and will assist in the formation of new co-operative enterprises.

Canadian Guilty of Killing Sister-in-Law's Infant.

Mrs. Willis was Pople's sister-in-law and she lived at his house.

Her child was an annoyance in the boarding house so Pople killed it.

Chairman of Union Pacific Board of Directors Says Determined Efforts Were Made to Have a Certain Lawyer Retained by His Company to "Grease the Wheels" in Washington and Prevent Unpleasant Agitation.

Washington, June 26.—Robert Scott Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad company, told the senate "lobby" investigating committee that a long continued and determined effort had been made to have Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer, retained by his company to "grease the wheels" in Washington and prevent unpleasant agitation in congress against the dissolution plan of the Union Pacific Southern Pacific systems, ordered by the supreme court and now before the department of justice.

Mr. Lovett made no charge that any corrupt methods had been used to procure the employment of Lauterbach. He did swear, however, that some one purporting to be Congressman Rioridan of New York had urged over the telephone the retention of the New Yorker and had suggested the likelihood of difficulty in congress which might be averted by his employment as counsel.

Similar Talk Over Phone.

A similar telephone conversation had occurred, he said, between a man also representing himself as Mr. Rioridan and Maxwell Everts, counsel for the Southern Pacific.

Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a New York banking house interested in Union Pacific, the witness said, had had several conversations with Mr. Lauterbach personally, in which the lawyer had referred to what might be expected from the "radical element" in congress in relation to the dissolution plans of the two roads.

"Mr. Kahn reported to me," Mr. Lovett said, "that Mr. Lauterbach had said in substance that a motion was about to be made, I think, in the house of representatives, to oppose the proposed dissolution."

Services Were Available.

"He said that the radical party, as he called them, or the radical faction, were about to commence these efforts and that they were going to make a point about common banking control—he mentioned some of the congressmen who would lead in this and indicated that he might be very helpful in the matter and that his services were available if desired."

"Did he state what congressmen they were?" Chairman Overman asked.

"Congressman Henry of Texas was mentioned," the witness said, "as the leader of the radical

Sugar Schedule is Acted Upon by a Vote of 40 to 6 and the Free Wool Provision by 41 to 6—No Attempt is Made to Bind Members, That Question Coming Up When Entire Bill Has Been Passed Upon.

Washington, June 26.—Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool are now established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved by the Democratic caucus of the senate after a two-day fight.

Spokane Woman's Jealousy Believed Motive for Double Crime.

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—Frank Fromme, champion revolver shot of the United States in 1909, and his wife were found dead in a tent back of their home here.

From a note in the dead woman's handwriting the authorities believe Mrs. Fromme shot her husband through jealousy and then committed suicide.

In the note two young women of this city are named as the cause of the tragedy.

GERMAN SPY FOUND GUILTY

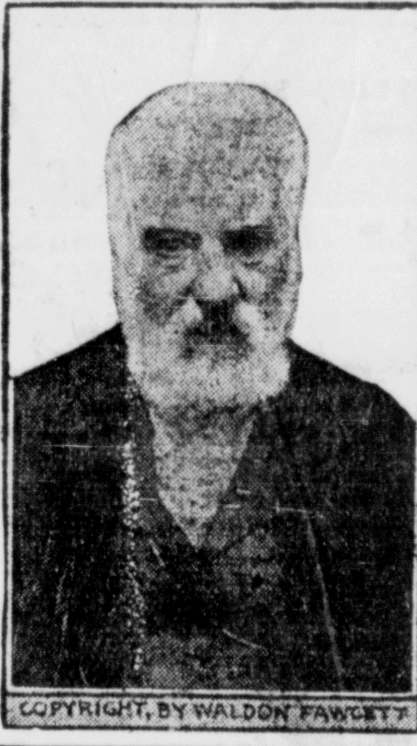

Portsmouth Dentist Too Much Interested in Naval Matters.

Winchester, Eng., June 26.—William Klare, a German dentist living at Portsmouth, was found guilty at the assizes here on the charge of espionage at Portsmouth, England's chief naval station. He was sentenced to five years' servitude.

Torpedo and submarine, it developed at the trial, were the special subject of Klare's research.

ALEXANDER G. BELL.

Dartmouth College Honors Inventor of the Telephone.

PHONE INVENTOR HONORED

Alexander Bell Given Degree by Dartmouth College.

Hanover, N. H., June 26.—Dartmouth college celebrated its 144th commencement by graduating a class of 208 men. The honorary degrees included: Doctor of laws, Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone; doctor of divinity, Walter Taylor Sumner, dean of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, Chicago; master of arts, F. W. D. Mead of Boston, secretary of the world peace foundation.

ANOTHER FEDERAL ATTORNEY IS OUT

Assistant to Prosecutor McNab Is Removed.

San Francisco, June 26.—Clayton Herrington, federal investigator of white slave cases for the United States department of justice who gathered the evidence in the Diggs-Caminetti cases and who called upon President Wilson to remove Attorney General McReynolds from office for delaying trials, was suspended from office on an order from Washington.

The order was signed by A. B. Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice. Herrington assisted McNab in preparing the white slave cases.

"McReynolds' explanation is pitiable," said Herrington. "He protests that he is 'profoundly conscious that his actions were free from unworthy motives.' So was Lord Bacon, who accepted bribe money because it would not influence him. There are influences other than financial ones."

"McReynolds' excuse is that the 'facts were not fresh in his memory' and he blames McNab for not jogging it a second time. McReynolds needs a better memory, as much as the president needs a better attorney general."

SUN DANCE CAUSES TRAGEDY

Utah Brave Murders Young Squaw and Kills Self.

Vernal, Utah, June 26.—Crazed with jealousy while the sun dance, the greatest of the Ute Indian festivals, was in progress Tim Inchwit shot and killed his squaw and then fired a bullet into his own head. As the braves were dancing Inchwit's squaw approached the pole around which they were holding their festivities and placed a bundle of sweets at its foot.

A young brave bent over, as if to take some of the sweets, greatly enraged Inchwit. The squaw noticed his anger and ran away. Inchwit followed and shot her dead. The Indian picked up his dead squaw, carried her to his tepee and then killed himself.

DEATH LIST TO REACH FIFTY

Seventeen Now Known to Have Perished in Explosion.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 26.—With seventeen known to be dead, eighteen missing and a score in hospitals for whose recovery no hope is entertained the ultimate total victims of fire and explosion that wrecked the big plant of the Husted Milling and Elevating company on Tuesday will likely exceed fifty.

The police, working with company officials in checking up the list of employees, revised their estimate of twenty-eight missing by reducing it to eighteen.

TO SIFT CHARGE OF GRAFT

New York Supreme Court Judge Accused of Taking Profits.

Albany, N. Y., June 26.—At the request of Governor Sulzer the legislature decided to hear charges preferred by John A. Connolly, a New York contractor, against Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalen and fixed June 30 for beginning the investigation.

Connolly alleged that before his elevation to the supreme court bench Justice Cohalen accepted approximately $55 per cent of profits Connolly realized from city work obtained for him through Cohalen's influence.

LOBBY THROTTLE IS THROWN OPEN

Quiz Reaching Wider Latitude Than Was Anticipated.

COMMITTEE GETTING WISER

Indian Problems Vex Mississippi Senators—Some Choctaws Rich and Prosperous, While Others Are Poor—Secretary Tumulty Becomes a Doctor. President Puzzles Newspaper Men.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 26.—[Special.]—They are going to throw the throttle wide open and let everybody have a chance to say what he desires at the lobby investigation. There has been no limit from the very beginning, but the committee has been given still wider latitude than when it first started. Like all such committees, it has been finding much that was known to exist, save that it was not known officially.

We all knew that there was a lobby for sugar protection and for free sugar and for and against almost every other feature of the tariff legislation where great interests were involved. No one knew how much money was being spent, however, until the reluctant witnesses told the committee on the witness stand. In that regard the committee is accomplishing results. Chairman Overman lets everything in and does not cramp those who cross examine witnesses.

Never Ending Indian Problems.

One might think that some of the problems relating to the Indians might be settled, but it seems that the older treaties the more complicated are the questions. When the Indian appropriation bill passed the senate Senators Williams and Vandaman of Mississippi made earnest pleas for the Choctaws of that state, claiming that they had been unfairly treated in an agreement made as far back as 1830. Quite a number of these Indians did not go to Indian territory. Now they are very poor, while the Choctaws of Indian territory, or Oklahoma, are rich and prosperous.

Tumulty's Degree.

Joseph Patrick Tumulty received a degree from a Jersey institution, one of those L. L. D. things which allow him to take the title of doctor. The first man to see him the morning after said:

"Hello, doctor; how about it?"

"Fine," replied Tumulty. "Had a great time; was all decked out in those mortarboard hats and gown and things. It was simply immense."

There came a string of callers. Everybody went into Tumulty's office, and everybody called him "doctor," "doc" or "M. D." Along toward 11 o'clock Tumulty began to feel bored. By 12 o'clock the man who called him "doctor" was told to go to a warmer place than Washington.

How Much Does He Tell?

Twice a week the president receives the Washington newspaper men. He places no limit upon them. They ask all the questions they want to, the kind they want to, and if they do not ask real questions bringing out news it is their fault. The president answers that he "doesn't know" or that he "can't say as to that," or he may say "Yes" or "No" to some questions. After fifteen minutes of rapid fire questions the newspaper men file out and ask each other:

"Did you get any news out of that?"

"What did he really say that we can print?"

"Did anything really develop?" or queries to the same effect.

The fact is the president tells just what he wants to tell, and the best news which has developed at these "quizzing bees" has been skillfully put out by the president himself regardless of questions asked.

Give the West a Chance.

They will never make a conservationist out of Senator Mark Smith of Arizona. He wants to raise the lid, throw open the gates in Alaska and other western regions and let them be developed. Mark has been a western man for more than a third of a century. Most of the time he lived in a territory, and he knows that developing a territory even under favorable conditions is slow work. He takes the ground that the west had been developed successfully before there was a conservation movement, and if the movement had started fifty years ago there would be mighty little development west of the Missouri river.

Looks and Feelings.

"Senator, you are looking remarkably well," remarked a man greeting Senator Tillman in the corridor.

"Well, it's good to hear you say so," replied the South Carolina veteran.

"But what makes me so and is to look well and not feel well enough to go in there and tear up things like I used to a few years ago?"

And those who know the old warrior understand just how he itches to break loose as he did during the early years of his senate service.

Like a Boy at School.

When Senator Lane of Oregon wants recognition from Vice President Marshall he raises his right hand high in the air, just as a boy at school does to attract the attention of the teacher. He looks as if he was reaching for a line drive in a baseball game.

Unchanged Diet.

"Anything new at your boarding house?" "Not a thing, either grub or gossip,"—Washington Herald.

RICHARD BARTHOLOTT.

Again Chosen President of the Interparliamentary Union.

Washington, June 26.—Endorsement of Secretary Bryan's peace plan and the re-election for the tenth time of Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri as president featured the annual meeting here of the American group of the Interparliamentary union.

ADMITS WRONGDOING AND ENDS HER LIFE

North Dakota Woman Implicates Game Warden.

Ryder, N. D., June 26.—Mrs. James H. Griffin, wife of one of the best known physicians in this part of the state, sobbed out a confession in the presence of her husband, her parents and Mrs. George F. Hart, wife of the man she implicated. Mrs. Griffin is now dead by her own hand. Mr. Hart, who is game warden for the Northern district of the state and a prominent druggist, is under arrest on a statutory charge and two little children are crying for the mother that is gone.

Gossip has connected the names of Mr. Hart and Mrs. Griffin for more than a year. Neither family, however, seemed aware of it.

Then word of it reached Mrs. Hart. Whether Dr. Griffin also had heard anything is not known. But a conference by arrangement apparently was called at the Griffin residence.

With her husband, parents and Mrs. Hart facing her the story was repeated to Mrs. Griffin. At first she denied it, but her accusers demanded an explanation. Mrs. Hart cited incidents, forced trivial admissions and demanded others.

Mrs. Griffin broke down and began the narrative. Between fits of weeping she told all the details. Several hours later she committed suicide by shooting.

FATE IN HANDS OF THE JURY

W. T. Anderson Accused of Killing Clarence Funk.

Washington, N. D., June 26.—The case of Walter T. Anderson, charged with the murder of Clarence Funk, a former St. Paul bank employee, was placed in the hands of the jury after a lengthy charge by Judge Crawford. Judge Crawford allowed for verdicts from murder in the first degree to manslaughter in the second degree, this feature being a distinct surprise to both the prosecution and the defense, as either a first degree murder verdict or none at all had been expected.

PLAN MARKET NEWS SERVICE

Federal Bureau Will Report Prices for Benefit of Truck Gardeners.

Washington, June 26.—A market news service for farmers and truck gardeners who raise perishable products may be established by the recently created office of markets of the department of agriculture.

The feasibility of such a service is to be studied by a specialist of the office. The prices received by producers, the cost of transportation and storage, change of ownership, accumulated charges, profit and other elements will be investigated.

Other specialists are to give attention to co-operative organizations of producers and consumers and will assist in the formation of new co-operative enterprises.

LAST MILITANT FREED.

London, June 26.—Miss Harriet Kerr, the last militant suffragette prisoner of those sentenced for conspiracy on June 17, was released from jail suffering from the effects of a "hunger strike." She was undergoing a twelve months' sentence.

Suffragettes Roughly Handled.

London, June 26.—Militant suffragettes who thronged the streets to see President Poincare of France as he proceeded from York House to Guild hall were roughly handled by a mob of boys and men just after the president's carriage had passed. The skirts of several of the women were torn off.

RECITES CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY

SENATOR DRAWS REVOLVER

Dramatic Scene When Member Levels Gun at Colleague.

Lisbon, June 26.—A violent scene occurred in the senate. Senator Arthur Costa, brother of the premier, objected to the remarks of Joao Jose de Freitas and advanced upon him. Senator de Freitas drew a revolver and leveled it at the other's breast. For a dramatic moment the two men stood facing each other. Then several of the senators sprang upon de Freitas and disarmed him.

CHILD WAS AN ANNOYANCE

Canadian Guilty of Killing Sister-in-Law's Infant.

Winnipeg, Man., June 26.—Victor Cyril Pople, twenty-two years old, was found guilty of murder at assizes court here. He smothered to death the three-year-old child of Mrs. Eva May Willis last April in a boat on the banks of the Red river here.

Mrs. Willis was Pople's sister-in-law and she lived at his house. Her child was an annoyance in the boarding house so Pople killed it.

Boy Would Turn Turtle.

Strickland W. Gillian has a four-year-old son whose pet is a turtle. One day the youngster, after a period of thinking, announced:

"I wish I was a turtle."

"Because when I had a pain I could pull my head inside me and look around to see what the trouble was,"—Newark News.

HER SCHEME FAILED.

Plight of a Singer Who Yearned to Captivate Ludwig II.

King Ludwig II. of Bavaria had a wonderful winter garden at Munich, which was built on the roof of the residence. There was also an artificial lake with a painted panoramic background of the Himalaya mountains, and when the king sat in the garden
a "property" moon shed its gaseous light above the snow capped peaks.

The king used often to command artists from the theater to perform in the winter gardens, and I remember the fate which befell Josephina Schefsky, a large, tall woman, whose one wish in life was to attract Ludwig's notice.
As all singers sang hidden behind screens, Josephina's chances of meeting the king face to face were exceedingly small. But what woman is ever at a loss for an expedient? She knew how chivalrously romantic Ludwig could be on occasions, so she decided she would fall into the lake and entreat him to rescue her.

The eventful evening arrived. Josephina warbled her sweetest for the benefit of the listening monarch and when the song was over plunged heavily into the lake.

There was a tremendous noise, and the water splashed to the topmost summit of the "Himalayas," but the lady remained chin deep in the lake, whose still waters were not so deep as they looked. "Save me, save me, Lohengrin!" cried the agitated singer.
The king rang the bell. "Get that woman out of the lake and send her home," he commanded, and the dripping Josephina, sadder and wiser, walked out of the water and out of the residence forever.—Countess Marie Lariach.

VARICOSE VEINS.

Their Causes and Effects and the Treatment They Require.

A varicose vein is an enlarged and twisted vein, generally in the leg. It is caused by stagnation of the blood.
Often the patient has a hereditary predisposition to varicose veins or he has a weak heart, with a consequent tendency to sluggish venous circulation.

Anything that interferes with the flow of blood through the veins may bring on an attack. Pressure from a tight garter and very severe muscular exertion are often exciting causes. Persons who are obliged to stand for several hours at a time, like policemen, washerwomen and saleswomen, are often subject to this trouble. Under ordinary conditions the blood in the legs must run up hill constantly in order to regain the heart. In the case of those who stand most of the day the blood has to work hard hour after hour in order to overcome the force of gravity, and as a result the veins gradually enlarge and harden.

In mild cases of varicose veins, especially in young and otherwise healthy people, the symptoms are very slight.
There is a feeling of weight in the leg and a dull ache toward the end of the day. The ache is soon relieved by the patient's resting with the leg somewhat raised so that the blood can flow back more easily. Sometimes painful cramps complicate the trouble, and the cramp is likely to return again and again until life becomes a burden.

More serious complications are thrombosis (or the clotting of the blood in the vein) and phlebitis (or inflammation of a vein). Often a form of eczema appears in the skin of the leg, or an ulcer may arise. When varicose veins are very troublesome surgical treatment is advisable, but the milder cases can be much relieved by rest and proper bandaging.—Youth's Companion.

DIGEST OF BANK AND CURRENCY REFORM BILL NOW IN CONGRESS

Reported That Measure May Be Put Through During Present Session.

Under Its Provisions All Power Will Be Taken From Bankers.

WHILE prophecies are rife in dispatches from Washington that congress will take action during the present session on the currency reform bill, late introduced in the house by Representative Carter Glass of Virginia, the chairman of the committee on banking and currency, others are not lacking, which seem to indicate the contrary, despite the fact that the measure has the backing of the administration. Every point in the bill, as presented, was carefully gone over by President Wilson and Secretaries Bryan and McAdoo, and it is understood that several of its most important provisions were directly fathered by them.

For the convenience of the busy man, the following official digest of the measure will give a definite idea of its scope and aim:

Digest of the Bill.

The purpose of the bill is to furnish a comprehensive revision of the currency system of the country so as to obtain four principal objects:

First.—Provision of a means for re-discounting commercial paper of specified types.

Second.—Provision of a basis for elastic note issues properly safeguarded.

Third.—Provision of machinery for doing foreign banking business.

In order to accomplish these purposes fully it is necessary to repeal certain portions of existing law; to rectify various conditions in the present national banking system which are in some cases only indirectly connected with the objects sought; to furnish a new class of institutions for the performance of some functions which cannot well be entrusted to existing banks, or, at all events, can better be performed by others, and to alter the present reserve system to a very material degree.

The scope of the bill can best be understood by an analytical review of its contents.

The present banking situation in the United States rests upon the national bank act proper as slightly modified from time to time and upon the so called Aldrich-Vreeland act (act of March 30, 1908). Of these acts the latter is completely superseded on the ground that it has never become operative, probably will not become operative except under extreme stress and was never satisfactory.

The national bank act itself is modified in numerous essential particulars. In a separate measure a general revision of the administrative provisions of the national bank act will be provided.

New Class of Banks.

Fundamental to the idea of the bill is the creation of a new class of banks to be known as federal reserve banks, the chief points about which are as follows:

First.—The number is to be twelve, with possible increase later as provided.

Second.—The ownership is to be in the hands of the stockholding banks of the twelve districts in which the reserve banks are situated. The national banks are compelled to be members, and state banks and trust companies are permitted to be members.

Third.—The capitalization is to be 20 per cent of the capital of the stockholding banks, one-half paid in and one-half subject to call.

Fourth.—The business of these federal reserve banks is to be as follows:

(a) Rediscouting of paper presented by stockholding banks under specified conditions, provided such paper grows out of actual agricultural, commercial or industrial transactions and does not run more than a specified number of days.

(b) Buying and selling government securities, gold and silver bullion and foreign coin, foreign exchange and open market bills of given maturity.

(c) Government fiscal operations.

Every national bank is allowed to continue its note issue exactly as at present, and in addition federal reserve treasury notes are authorized to be issued to an amount not exceeding $500,000,000. These notes will upon application be issued to the federal reserve banks upon short time commercial paper and other liquid collateral. While the notes will on their face purport to be the obligations of the United States, they are required to be secured by a gold reserve of 33 1/3 per cent provided by the federal reserve bank and are first and paramount lien on all the assets of these banks and are redeemable in gold on demand at the treasury department in the city of Washington at any federal reserve bank. Stringent provisions are made against counting any of these notes as a part of bank reserves, and the system is guarded against inflation by lodging power with the federal reserve board to exact an interest charge upon treasury notes in order to insure their prompt redemption. The notes are not made legal tender, but are receivable by the government and every bank of the system at par without exchange. No change is made in the elements of protection afforded existing banknotes.

Overseeing the whole system is created a federal reserve board consisting of seven members, including the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture and the comptroller of the currency as members ex officio. Four other members are chosen by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for a term of six years each. One of the members thus appointed by the president is to be governor of the federal reserve board, one vice governor and one secretary.

Government Control.

Their term of office is for eight years, except that of those first appointed one to serve two years, one four, one six and one eight years. At least one of the members appointed by the president is to be a person of banking experience. Thus it will be noted that the government will have absolute control of the system. The salary of each member of the board except the two cabinet officers who are ex officio members is fixed at $10,000; the comptroller of the currency to receive $5,000 in addition to the salary which he receives under existing law.

The powers of the federal reserve board are as follows:

(a) To examine at its discretion the accounts and books of each federal reserve bank and to require such statements and reports as it deems necessary.

(b) To require, on or application to permit, a federal reserve bank to re-discount the paper of any other federal reserve bank.

(c) To establish each week, or as much oftener as required, a rate of discount which shall be mandatory upon each federal reserve bank and for each class of paper, provided that said rate of discount need not be uniform for all federal reserve banks, but shall be made with a view to accommodating the commerce of the country and promoting a stable price level.

(d) To suspend for a period not exceeding thirty days (and to renew suspension for periods not to exceed fifteen days) any and every reserve requirement specified in this act.

(e) To supervise and regulate the issue of treasury notes to federal reserve banks.

(f) To add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in the act, or to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities and to designate the banks there situated as country banks at its discretion.

(g) To require the removal of officials of federal reserve banks for incompetency, dereliction of duty, fraud or deceit.

(h) To require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of federal reserve banks.

(i) To suspend the further operations of any federal reserve bank and appoint a receiver therefor.

(j) To perform the duties, functions or services specified or implied in the act.

Federal Reserve Banks.

The bill is based on the belief that no one should participate in the control of the system unless he is financially interested himself or chosen by those who are except in so far as the government steps in and asserts the authority of the whole community. With this in mind the system has been devised so as to provide for the continuation of existing national banks and their organization, powers and function unchanged. In addition there is established a system of federal reserve banks, which are incorporated institutions holding federal charters and in all respects managed like national banks except as to the election of directors.

As stated, there are twelve of these federal reserve banks, each managed by a board of nine directors, three of whom will be expert bankers selected by the banks, three will be members selected in the same way, but required to represent the commercial, industrial or agricultural interests of the district and subject to removal by the federal reserve board in case they do not fairly represent these interests. The remaining three directors are to be chosen by the federal reserve board, and one of them is to be designated by said board as chairman of the board of directors of the federal reserve bank of the district to which he is appointed and is to be the agent of the federal reserve board.

The national banks are compelled to be stockholding members of the federal reserve bank of their respective districts, and state banks and trust companies are permitted to be members under certain well defined regulations. All the domestic transactions of the federal reserve bank must be with member banks and the government, except that it may purchase banknotes, bills and bills of exchange in the open market from individuals as well as from domestic or foreign banks.

Division of Business.

The object of the bill is to effect a moderate division and classification of banking business along indicated lines, the net result, presumably, being summed up as follows:

First.—National reserve banks will be strictly limited to rediscounting actual commercial and industrial transactions evidenced by very short term paper and on rare occasions, under carefully prescribed conditions, to financial operations protected by collateral. They will also be able to engage in foreign exchange operations, sales of government securities, etc., as already explained.

Second.—National banks will be subjected to precisely the same restrictions as at present, with a relaxation in favor of a moderate amount of real estate loans by country banks under carefully guarded conditions.

Third.—By a revision of the administrative features of the national banking act provision will be made for close oversight of national institutions with a view to holding them strictly up to the requirements of a legitimate banking business.

Fourth.—In order to possess themselves of the kind of paper entitling them to rediscount national banks will find themselves obliged to keep a reasonable proportion of their assets in the form of paper eligible for rediscounting, and this will mean very considerable emphasis upon the strictly commercial aspects of the business done by national institutions.

It is believed that the present sub-treasury system is unsatisfactory, clumsy, injurious to business and difficult to manage in time of stress. The bill, therefore, provides for:

First.—The placing of all currency funds of the treasury in federal reserve banks and the payment of government creditors by checks thereon.

Second.—The equalization of the public funds between the different reserve banks by direction of the secretary of the treasury and subject to a rate of interest to be fixed by the federal reserve board.

Third.—The trust funds of the treasury are to be held, as at present, in the vaults of the treasury.

Division of Earnings.

Under the terms of the bill each federal reserve bank after the payment of all expenses and taxes is entitled to pay an annual cumulative dividend of 5 per cent on paid in capital to its stockholding members. One-half the net earnings of the bank must be paid into the surplus fund until said fund shall amount to 20 per cent of the paid in capital of the bank. The remaining one-half of the bank's earnings shall be paid to the United States, and whenever and so long as the surplus fund of each federal reserve bank amounts to 20 per cent of the paid in capital, the shareholders having received their permissible dividend of 5 per cent, all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States. Every federal reserve bank is exempt from federal, state and local taxation, except in respect to taxes upon real estate.

NEW CAVALRY TEST ON FAMED BATTLEGROUND

Bugles Will Again Resound in the Shenandoah Valley.

The Shenandoah valley, where General Phil Sheridan made his famous ride fifty years ago, is to hear again the bugle, the sound of galloping horses, the click of carbines and the boom of cannon, for the war department is trying out the cavalry and has chosen the Shenandoah as the bloodless battleground.

For two months this summer a full brigade of cavalry and a battery of horse artillery will maneuver near Winchester, which figured in great cavalry battles in the war between the states.

The department has leased a tract of ground a mile broad and two miles long in the heart of the Shenandoah, seventy miles from Washington.

Great interest attaches to the maneuvers. Secretary Garrison will be a frequent spectator. Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, probably will spend much time there, and President Wilson may make the trip to the valley battleground.

Some of the practical questions to be worked out are:

How large a command can a captain handle successfully?

How many such units can a colonel handle to the best advantage under conditions approximating hostilities?

The new formation of the cavalry into double ranks also will be tried out on a large scale.

CHURCH GARAGE FOR BABIES.

Care of Perambulators Expected to Increase Congregation.

A garage for baby carriages is to be a feature of the Henry Disston Memorial Methodist church, in course of construction in Tacony, a suburb of Philadelphia. The Rev. Cornelius Hudson, the pastor, in speaking about the innovation, said:

"We have lots of babies in the congregation, and we thought that if we built a place where the mothers and the fathers could keep the carriages during the service more of them would attend the services regularly."

"It has been no uncommon sight to see sixteen or seventeen baby carriages lined up in front of the church on a Sunday afternoon. We have taken a census and believe that at least 100 families with their babies will come here if we give them a suitable place where their perambulators can be taken care of."

INVENTS A NEW TOBACCO.

Harvard Professor Produces Better Quality and Increased Yield.

Professor E. M. East of Harvard university has just succeeded in producing a hybrid tobacco from a cross between the Sumatra and Havana varieties which has resulted in a better quality of smoking material and a yield of 50 per cent more than either of the individual leaves.

The new plant is especially suitable for the sunny tobacco districts of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Another hybrid from "broad leaf" and "Cuban" gives a much higher yield than "broad leaf" and promises to be of better quality.

U. S. TO ORGANIZE AGRICULTURISTS

Government to Study Credit Needs of Farmers.

TO TEACH CO-OPERATION.

Department of Agriculture Begins Movement Financed by Education Board, Rockefeller Philanthropy—It Is Expected That Campaign as Planned Will Reduce Cost of Living.

The broadest investigation yet undertaken by Uncle Sam's department of agriculture, designed ultimately to solve some of the great problems of farm life, is being planned for the rural organization service, which has just been established by Secretary Houston. The secretary and Dr. T. N. Carver of Harvard, who is at the head of the new work, are confident of splendid results.

The rural organization service will work in closest co-operation with the newly created division of markets, which will devote its energies primarily to problems connected with the marketing of farm products at a profit. In many instances it is not the lack of a market that prevents the farmer from turning over a profit, but inability to utilize the means for reaching the market.

Secretary Houston, Dr. Carver and students of farm economics in general long have felt that the weakness of agriculture was disorganization. This disorganization is the natural and often necessary result of the vast number of farm units, each one a separate business enterprise. Also it is the result of the isolation of farm life and the fact that the farmer has learned to co-operate with nature better than with men.

Intelligent Organization. "The first great problem," said Dr. Carver, "is intelligent organization. There are enormous difficulties in the way of effective organization. Mere organization for organization's sake amounts to nothing. On the other hand, intelligent organization has done wonders in many industries. The citrus fruit industry of the Pacific coast furnishes a wonderful example. Unorganized, the orange growers of California could not market their crops at a profit. With their present effective organization the difficulties in the way of reaching the right markets are reduced to a minimum."

"Take another illustration. The beet sugar manufacturers are organized. As a result they pay the farmers who raise sugar beets only enough to keep them at the work. If the farmers were organized and the sugar manufacturers unorganized the farmers would make the manufacturers pay at least a fair profit. Unorganized, they can only accept what the manufacturer is willing to pay."

Plenty of Funds. The rural organization service will be financed by the general education board, one of the philanthropies of John D. Rockefeller. While backed by practically unlimited funds, however, the work will not be done on an extravagant scale. The general education board so far has appropriated only enough money to make a beginning and to effect an organization of thoroughly competent men.

The southern education board, a branch of the general board, for several years past has been co-operating with the department in its farmers' co-operative demonstration work in the southern states. This work has met with phenomenal success and has solved many farm problems for the south.

Effective organization in marketing crops will ultimately bring the farmer a much larger return for his work and also reduce the cost of living to the consumer by removing the middleman wherever practicable.

BALDHEAD CLUB TO MEET. Hairless Pated Band, Toastmaster and Host For Banquet.

Robert J. Orr, president of the Baldhead Club of America, who was fifty-five years old recently, called a meeting of the officers of the club at his home in Pittsfield, Mass., to celebrate. Incidentally there was a business meeting of the club at which Oct. 16 was set as the date of the second annual banquet of the club, which will be held at Canaan, Conn., in a hotel managed by a baldheaded proprietor.

John Rodemeyer, a baldheaded editor, will be toastmaster, and the six Karl brothers of Litchfield, Conn., all baldheaded, will furnish the music. The club has a membership of ninety-six.

Answered. Bishop Goodman was one day addressing a Sunday school when he said in a most expressive way: "And now, children, let me tell you a very sad fact. In Africa there are 10,000,000 square miles of territory without a single Sunday school where little boys and girls can spend their Sundays. Now, what should we all try and save up our money and do?"

And the class, as one voice, replied in ecstatic unison, "Go to Africa!"—Exchange.

At a recent sale in London Franklin's "Essay on Liberty and Necessity," printed in 1775, brought $5.025. There were only 100 copies printed of the original edition, which was suppressed, and only one copy is now known to exist besides the copy mentioned.

This copy was originally bought by Henry Stevens and offered to the British museum authorities fifty years ago for $5. It was afterward sold for 50 cents.

WAS HAMLET FAT?

With His Own Words He Doth Proclaim the Fact Quite Flat.

The traditional Hamlet of our stage is a lean, ascetic young person, an idealized, etherealized, heroic creature evolved for the delectation of the matinee girl. He is a horrid sham. Is it credible that such a man would have lacked the determination, the purposefulness, to put his revenge into operation upon the discovery? It is all very well to argue about his mental balance. It was his sluggish liver that stayed him and hampered him.

Hamlet's father was a fat and lethargic man by his own account. Sleeping within my orchard. My custom always of the afternoon, he says in his ghostly interview.

We may then look for some clew to Hamlet's character as soon as he is alone on the stage. What are his words?

(e) To supervise and regulate the issue of treasury notes to federal reserve banks.

(f) To add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in the act, or to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities and to designate the banks therein situated as country banks at its discretion.

(h) To require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of federal reserve banks.

(i) To suspend the further operations of any federal reserve bank and appoint a receiver therefor.

(j) To perform the duties, functions or services specified or implied in the act.

Federal Reserve Banks.

The bill is based on the belief that no one should participate in the control of the system unless he is financially interested himself or chosen by those who are except in so far as the government steps in and asserts the authority of the whole community. With this in mind the system has been devised so as to provide for the continuation of existing national banks and their organization, powers and function unchanged. In addition there is established a system of federal reserve banks, which are incorporated institutions holding federal charters and in all respects managed like national banks except as to the election of directors.

As stated, there are twelve of these federal reserve banks, each managed by a board of nine directors, three of whom will be expert bankers selected by the banks, three will be members selected in the same way, but required to represent the commercial, industrial or agricultural interests of the district and subject to removal by the federal reserve board in case they do not fairly represent these interests. The remaining three directors are to be chosen by the federal reserve board, and one of them is to be designated by said board as chairman of the board of directors of the federal reserve bank of the district to which he is appointed and is to be the agent of the federal reserve board.

The national banks are compelled to be stockholding members of the federal reserve bank of their respective districts, and state banks and trust companies are permitted to be members under certain well defined regulations. All the domestic transactions of the federal reserve bank must be with member banks and the government, except that it may purchase bankers' bills and bills of exchange in the open market from individuals as well as from domestic or foreign banks.

Division of Business.

The object of the bill is to effect a moderate division and classification of banking business along indicated lines, the net result, presumably, being summed up as follows:

First.—National reserve banks will be strictly limited to rediscounting actual commercial and industrial transactions evidenced by very short term paper and on rare occasions, under carefully prescribed conditions, to financial operations protected by collateral. They will also be able to engage in foreign exchange operations, sales of government securities, etc., as already explained.

Second.—National banks will be subjected to precisely the same restrictions as at present, with a relaxation in favor of a moderate amount of real estate loans by country banks under carefully guarded conditions.

Third.—By a revision of the administrative features of the national banking act provision will be made for close oversight of national institutions with a view to holding them strictly up to the requirements of a legitimate banking business.

Fourth.—In order to possess themselves of the kind of paper entitling them to rediscount national banks will find themselves obliged to keep a reasonable proportion of their assets in the form of paper eligible for rediscounting, and this will mean very considerable emphasis upon the strictly commercial aspects of the business done by national institutions.

It is believed that the present sub-treasury system is unworkable, clumsy, injurious to business and difficult to manage in time of stress. The bill, therefore, provides for:

First.—The placing of all currency funds of the treasury in federal reserve banks and the payment of government creditors by checks thereon.

Second.—The equalization of the public funds between the different reserve banks by direction of the secretary of the treasury and subject to a rate of interest to be fixed by the federal reserve board.

Third.—The trust funds of the treasury are to be held, as at present, in the vaults of the treasury.

Division of Earnings.

Under the terms of the bill each federal reserve bank after the payment of all expenses and taxes is entitled to pay an annual cumulative dividend of 5 per cent on paid in capital to its stockholding members. One-half the net earnings of the bank must be paid into the surplus fund until said fund shall amount to 20 per cent of the paid in capital of the bank. The remaining one-half of the bank's earnings shall be paid to the United States, and whenever and so long as the surplus fund of each federal reserve bank amounts to 20 per cent of the paid in capital, the shareholders having received their permissible dividend of 5 per cent, all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States. Every federal reserve bank is exempt from federal, state and local taxation, except in respect to taxes upon real estate.

NEW CAVALRY TEST ON FAMED BATTLEGROUND

Bugles Will Again Resound in the Shenandoah Valley.

The Shenandoah valley, where General Phil Sheridan made his famous ride fifty years ago, is to hear again the bugle, the sound of galloping horses, the click of carbines and the boom of cannon, for the war department is trying out the cavalry and has chosen the Shenandoah as the bloodless battleground.

For two months this summer a full brigade of cavalry and a battery of horse artillery will maneuver near Winchester, which figured in great cavalry battles in the war between the states.

The department has leased a tract of ground a mile broad and two miles long in the heart of the Shenandoah, seventy miles from Washington.

Great interest attaches to the maneuvers. Secretary Garrison will be a frequent spectator. Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, probably will spend much time there, and President Wilson may make the trip to the valley battleground.

Some of the practical questions to be worked out are:

How large a command can a captain handle successfully?

How many such units can a colonel handle to the best advantage under conditions approximating hostilities?

The new formation of the cavalry into double ranks also will be tried out on a large scale.

CHURCH GARAGE FOR BABIES.

Care of Perambulators Expected to Increase Congregation.

A garage for baby carriages is to be a feature of the Henry Dikston Memorial Methodist church, in course of construction in Tacony, a suburb of Philadelphia. The Rev. Cornelius Hudson, the pastor, in speaking about the innovation, said:

"We have lots of babies in the congregation, and we thought that if we built a place where the mothers and the fathers could keep the carriages during the service more of them would attend the services regularly. "It has been no uncommon sight to see sixteen or seventeen baby carriages lined up in front of the church on a Sunday afternoon. We have taken a census and believe that at least 100 families with their babies will come here if we give them a suitable place where their perambulators can be taken care of."

INVENTS A NEW TOBACCO.

Harvard Professor Produces Better Quality and Increased Yield.

Professor E. M. East of Harvard university has just succeeded in producing a hybrid tobacco from a cross between the Sumatra and Havana varieties which has resulted in a better quality of smoking material and a yield of 50 per cent more than either of the individual leaves.

The new plant is especially suitable for the sunny tobacco districts of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Another hybrid from "broad leaf" and "Cuban" gives a much higher yield than "broad leaf" and promises to be of better quality.

U. S. TO ORGANIZE AGRICULTURISTS

Government to Study Credit Needs of Farmers.

TO TEACH CO-OPERATION.

Department of Agriculture Begins Movement Financed by Education Board, Rockefeller Philanthropy—It Is Expected That Campaign as Planned Will Reduce Cost of Living.

The broadest investigation yet undertaken by Uncle Sam's department of agriculture, designed ultimately to solve some of the great problems of farm life, is being planned for the rural organization service, which has just been established by Secretary Houston. The secretary and Dr. T. N. Carver of Harvard, who is at the head of the new work, are confident of splendid results.

The rural organization service will work in closest co-operation with the newly created division of markets, which will devote its energies primarily to problems connected with the marketing of farm products at a profit. In many instances it is not the lack of a market that prevents the farmer from turning over a profit, but inability to utilize the means for reaching the market.

Secretary Houston, Dr. Carver and students of farm economics in general have felt that the weakness of agriculture was disorganization. This disorganization is the natural and often necessary result of the vast number of farm units, each one a separate business enterprise. Also it is the result of the isolation of farm life and the fact that the farmer has learned to co-operate with nature better than with men.

Intelligent Organization.

"The first great problem," said Dr. Carver, "is intelligent organization. There are enormous difficulties in the way of effective organization. Mere organization for organization's sake amounts to nothing. On the other hand, intelligent organization has done wonders in many industries. The citrus fruit industry of the Pacific coast furnishes a wonderful example. Unorganized, the orange growers of California could not market their crops at a profit. With their present effective organization the difficulties in the way of reaching the right markets are reduced to a minimum."

"Take another illustration. The beet sugar manufacturers are organized. As a result they pay the farmers who raise sugar beets only enough to keep them at the work. If the farmers were organized and the sugar manufacturers unorganized the farmers would make the manufacturers pay at least a fair profit. Unorganized, they can only accept what the manufacturer is willing to pay."

Plenty of Funds.

The rural organization service will be financed by the general education board, one of the philanthropies of John D. Rockefeller. While backed by practically unlimited funds, however, the work will not be done on an extravagant scale. The general education board so far has appropriated only enough money to make a beginning and to effect an organization of thoroughly contented men.

The southern education board, a branch of the general board, for several years past has been co-operating with the department in its farmers' co-operative demonstration work in the southern states. This work has met with phenomenal success and has solved many farm problems for the south.

Effective organization in marketing crops will ultimately bring the farmer a much larger return for his work and also reduce the cost of living to the consumer by removing the middleman wherever practicable.

BALDHEAD CLUB TO MEET.

Hairless Pated Band, Toastmaster and Host For Banquet.

Robert J. Yer, president of the Baldhead Club of America, who was fifty-five years old recently, called a meeting of the officers of the club at his home in Pittsfield, Mass., to celebrate. Incidentally there was a business meeting of the club at which Oct. 16 was set as the date of the second annual banquet of the club, which will be held at Canaan, Conn., in a hotel managed by a baldheaded proprietor.

John Rodemeyer, a baldheaded editor, will be toastmaster, and the six Karl brothers of Litchfield, Conn., all baldheaded, will furnish the music. The club has a membership of ninety-six.

Answered.

Bishop Goodman was one day addressing a Sunday school when he said in a most expressive way: "And now, children, let me tell you a very sad fact. In Africa there are 10,000,000 square miles of territory without a single Sunday school where little boys and girls can spend their Sundays. Now, what should we all try and save up our money and do?"

And the class, as one voice, replied in ecstatic unison, "Go to Africa!"—Exchange.

FOR FRANKLIN BOOK, $5.025.

Essay Was Sold For 50 Cents Fifty Years Ago.

At a recent sale in London Franklin's "Essay on Liberty and Necessity," printed in 1775, brought $5.025. There were only 100 copies printed of the original edition, which was suppressed, and only one copy is now known to exist besides the copy mentioned.

This copy was originally bought by Henry Stevens and offered to the British museum authorities fifty years ago for $5. It was afterward sold for $6 cents.

WAS HAMLET FAT?

With His Own Words He Doth Proclaim the Fact Quite Pat.

The traditional Hamlet of our stage is a lean, ascetic young person, an idealized, etherealized, heroic creature evolved for the delectation of the matinee girl. He is a horrid sham. Is it credible that such a man would have lacked the determination, the purposefulness, to put his revenge into operation upon the discovery? It is all very well to argue about his mental balance. It was his sluggish liver that stayed him and hampered him. Hamlet's father was a fat and lethargic man by his own account.

Sleeping within my orchard, My custom always of the afternoon, He says in his ghostly interview.

We may then look for some clew to Hamlet's character as soon as he is alone on the stage. What are his words?

Oh, that this too, too solid flesh, would melt!

It is a keynote that may not be glossed over as a beautiful thought, for the same idea bursts out some lines farther on, where he says of the world:

Things rank and gross in nature Possess it merely.

Is it credible that such thoughts are there for any purpose save to guide us as to the nature of this prince? They serve a double purpose. Not merely do we learn that Hamlet was a fat man, but also that he was an unhappy fat man. Hamlet was a man to whom his bulk was an affliction. He was handicapped by it and knew that he was. Some such idea is discernible in every one of the great soliloquies. He scorns himself for a sluggard:

What is a man? If his chief good and market of his time Be but to sleep and feed?

His mind, unbidden or not, is obsessed by fatness, and in the mad turmoil of emotions after he has slain Polonius his thoughts run:

We fat all creatures else to fat us, and We fat ourselves for maggots.

It bursts out again in the "Oh, what a rogue and peasant slave!" tirade.

Ere this I should have fatted all the region's kites With this slave's offal;—

And who but a fat, lecherous man would have said in the "To be or not to be" speech:

Who would fardels bear To grunt and sweat under a weary life?

Does not the phrase bring to mind at once the picture of a fat man toiling at some loathed task?—London Express.

THE GIFT OF BOOKS.

When I consider what some books have done for the world and what they are doing, how they keep up our hope, awaken new courage and faith, soothe pain, give an ideal life to those whose hours are cold and hard, bind together distant ages and foreign lands, create new worlds of beauty, I thank God for the gift of books. —James Freeman Clarke.

Getting Round It. A famous mountaineer said of mountain climbing at a dinner in Brooklyn: "Peaks that seem inaccessible may be climbed by turns and twists. Mountain climbing is a question of getting around the bad places. Getting around your difficulty—that is the secret of mountain climbing. Liszt, the great musician, had the ability to get around things; hence I am sure he'd have made a good mountaineer. Once at a dinner Liszt's hostess cried in a horrified voice that there were thirteen at table."

Always There. "Never mind," said the cheerful idiot to a friend who was down on his luck; "remember there's always one place where you can find money and sympathy."

MAYOR WILL SHOW THEM

The Mayor of Little Falls Tells the City Council that He Proposes to Have it Known

"I'm the mayor of this city and am going to show that I'm mayor," was Mayor Johnson's retort to a question propounded to him by an alderman during a session of the legislative body at Little Falls. One has but to read the proceedings to understand that the mayor of the down river city means what he says, according to the Transcript report, for during a strenuous discussion over police appointments, the mayor answered an argument by saying "You're a liar or Hub Friesinger is a liar." The body of aldermen seemed to take it for granted that the mayor knew what he was talking about for it is not recorded that he was invited out, or that any gore was spilled following the accusation.

Later on during the meeting the mayor was called down for not properly addressing the chair by rising from his seat and also that he keep his feet off his desk.

When the mayor's attention was called to the alleged manner in which the brewery was managed and a suggestion made that the practice of selling beer on Sunday be stopped in fairness to the licensed dealers, he stated he knew his duty and suggested that instead of bringing their troubles to him that the citizens swear out warrants and prosecute the offenders. Mr. Nelson asked that the minutes show that he had called the mayor's attention to the matter, and the mayor objected to making it a matter of record but the chair overruled him.

Mr. Johnson is impressing upon the people of Little Falls the fact that he is mayor, and they probably will not forget it for some time.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—TRY

AN ESKIMO DINNER

It Was Not Very Dainty, but It Was a Satisfying Feast.

SEAL MEAT AND BLOOD SOUP.

The First Course Was Served Out of Hand, and the Second in Musk Ox Horn Drinking Cups—The Hospitality Extended to Explorer Stefansson.

An interesting description of the hospitality of Eskimos is given by Vilhjalmur Stefansson in his paper, "My Quest in the Arctic," in Harper's Magazine. At one stage of his adventures the writer found himself among Eskimos who had never before seen white people. He says:

"Like our distant ancestors, no doubt, these people fear most of all things the evil spirits that are likely to appear to them at any time in any guise, and next to that they fear strangers. Our first greeting had been a bit doubtful and dramatic through our being mistaken for spirits, but now they had felt of us and talked with us and knew we were but common men. Strangers we were, it is true, but we were only three among forty of them and were therefore not to be feared. Besides, they told us they knew we could harbor no guile from the freedom and frankness with which we came among them; for, they said, a man who plots treachery never turns his back to those whom he intends to stab from behind.

"Before the house which they immediately built for us was quite ready for our occupancy children came running from the village to announce that their mothers had dinner ready. The houses were so small that it was not convenient to invite all three of us into the same one to eat; besides, it was not etiquette to do so, as we now know. Each of us was therefore taken to a different place. My host was the seal hunter whom we had first approached on the ice. His house would, he said, be a fitting one in which to offer me my first meal among them, for his wife had been born farther west on the mainland coast than any one else in their village, and it was even said that her ancestors had not belonged originally to their people, but were immigrants from the westward. She would therefore like to ask me questions.

"It turned out, however, that his wife was not a talkative person, but motherly, kindly and hospitable, like all her countrywomen. Her first questions were not of the land from which I came, but of my footgear. Weren't my feet just a little damp, and might she not pull my boots off for me and dry them over the lamp? She had boiled some seal meat for me, but she had not boiled any fat, for she did not know whether I preferred the blubber boiled or raw. They always cut it in small pieces and ate it raw themselves, but the pot still hung over the lamp, and anything she put into it would be cooked in a moment.

"When I told her that my tastes quite coincided with theirs, as in fact they did, she was delighted. People were much alike then, after all, though they came from a great distance. She would accordingly treat me exactly as if I were one of their own people come to visit them from afar.

"When we had entered the house the boiled pieces of seal meat had already been taken out of the pot and lay steaming on a sideboard. On being assured that my tastes in food were not likely to differ from theirs, my hostess picked out for me the lower joint of a seal's foreleg, squeezed it firmly between her hands to make sure nothing should later drip from it, and handed it to me, along with her own copper bladed knife. The next most desirable piece was similarly squeezed and handed to her husband, and others in turn to the rest of the family.

"As we ate we sat on the front edge of the bed platform, holding each his piece of meat in the left hand and the knife in the right. This was my first experience with a knife of native copper. I found it more than sharp enough and very serviceable.

"Our meal was of two courses—the first, meat; the second, soup. The soup is made by pouring cold seal blood into the boiling broth immediately after the cooked meat has been taken out of the pot and stirring briskly until the whole comes nearly—but never quite—to a boil. This makes a soup of a thickness comparable to our English pea soup, but if the pot be allowed to come to a boil the blood will coagulate and settle to the bottom. When the soup is a few degrees from boiling the lamp above which the pot is swung is extinguished and a few handfuls of snow are stirred into the soup to bring it to a temperature at which it can be freely drunk. By means of a small dipper the housewife then fills the large musk ox horn drinking cups and assigns one to each person. If the number of cups is short two or more persons may share the contents of one cup or a cup may be refilled when one is through with it and passed to another.

"After I had eaten my fill of fresh seal meat and drunk two pint cupsful of blood soup my host and I moved farther back on the bed platform, where we could sit comfortably, propped up against bundles of soft caribou skins, while we talked of various things."

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism and Serious Diseases Follow

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and wornout feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected, may develop into the deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles for the new discovery, Hindipo, promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Hindipo a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly reach the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble or rheumatism.

You will find Hindipo different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Hindipo should fail in a single case. 50c a box at Johnson's Pharmacy. When the mayor's attention was called to the alleged manner in which the brewery was managed and a suggestion made that the practice of selling beer on Sunday be stopped in fairness to the licensed dealers, he stated he knew his duty and suggested that instead of bringing their troubles to him that the citizens swear out warrants and prosecute the offenders. Mr. Nelson asked that the minutes show that he had called the mayor's attention to the matter, and the mayor objected to making it a matter of record but the chair overruled him.

Mr. Johnson is impressing upon the people of Little Falls the fact that he is mayor, and they probably will not forget it for some time.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—TRY

AN ESKIMO DINNER

It Was Not Very Dainty, but It Was a Satisfying Feast.

SEAL MEAT AND BLOOD SOUP.

The First Course Was Served Out of Hand, and the Second in Musk Ox Horn Drinking Cups—The Hospitality Extended to Explorer Stefansson.

An interesting description of the hospitality of Eskimos is given by Vilhjalmr Stefansson in his paper, "My Quest in the Arctic," in Harper's Magazine. At one stage of his adventures the writer found himself among Eskimos who had never before seen white people. He says:

"Like our distant ancestors, no doubt, these people fear most of all things the evil spirits that are likely to appear to them at any time in any guise, and next to that they fear strangers. Our first greeting had been a bit doubtful and dramatic through our being mistaken for spirits, but now they had felt of us and talked with us and knew we were but common men. Strangers we were. It is true, but we were only three among forty of them and were therefore not to be feared. Besides, they told us they knew we could harbor no guile from the freedom and frankness with which we came among them; for, they said, a man who plots treachery never turns his back to those whom he intends to stab from behind.

"Before the house which they immediately built for us was quite ready for our occupancy children came running from the village to announce that their mothers had dinner ready. The houses were so small that it was not convenient to invite all three of us into the same one to eat; besides, it was not etiquette to do so, as we now know. Each of us was therefore taken to a different place. My host was the seal hunter whom we had first approached on the ice. His house would, he said, be a fitting one in which to offer me my first meal among them, for his wife had been born farther west on the mainland coast than any one else in their village, and it was even said that her ancestors had not belonged originally to their people, but were immigrants from the westward. She would therefore like to ask me questions.

"It turned out, however, that his wife was not a talkative person, but, motherly, kindly and hospitable, like all her countrywomen. Her first questions were not of the land from which I came, but of my footgear. Weren't she not pull my boots off for me and dry them over the lamp? She had boiled some seal meat for me, but she had not boiled any fat, for she did not know whether I preferred the blubber boiled or raw. They always cut it in small pieces and ate it raw themselves, but the pot still hung over the lamp, and anything she put into it would be cooked in a moment.

"When I told her that my tastes quite coincided with theirs, as in fact they did, she was delighted. People were much alike then, after all, though they came from a great distance. She would accordingly treat me exactly as if I were one of their own people come to visit them from afar.

"When we had entered the house the boiled pieces of seal meat had already been taken out of the pot and lay steaming on a sideboard. On being assured that my tastes in food were not likely to differ from theirs, my hostess picked out for me the lower joint of a seal's foreleg, squeezed it firmly between her hands to make sure nothing should later drip from it, and handed it to me, along with her own copper bladed knife. The next most desirable piece was similarly squeezed and handed to her husband, and others in turn to the rest of the family.

"As we ate we sat on the front edge of the bed platform, holding each his piece of meat in the left hand and the knife in the right. This was my first experience with a knife of native copper. I found it more than sharp enough and very serviceable.

"Our meal was of two courses—the first, meat; the second, soup. The soup is made by pouring cold seal blood into the boiling broth immediately after the cooked meat has been taken out of the pot and stirring briskly until the whole comes nearly—but never quite—to a boil. This makes a soup of a thickness comparable to our English pea soup, but if the pot be allowed to come to a boil the blood will coagulate and settle to the bottom. When the soup is a few degrees from boiling the lamp above which the pot is swung is extinguished and a few handfuls of snow are stirred into the soup to bring it to a temperature at which it can be freely drunk. By means of a small dipper the housewife then fills the large musk ox horn drinking cups and assigns one to each person. If the number of cups is short two or more persons may share the contents of one cup or a cup may be refilled when one is through with it and passed to another.

"After I had eaten my fill of fresh seal meat and drunk two pint cups of blood soup my host and I moved further back on the bed platform, where we could sit comfortably, propped up against bundles of soft caribou skins, while we talked of various things."

The Ruling Machine.

Under the primitive methods 100 reams of double cap paper can be ruled on both sides with faint lines by the use of a hand ruling machine in 140 hours as against twelve hours on a ruling machine with steam power, a ratio of over twelve to one in favor of the modern method. One hundred reams of single cap paper, with faint lines on both sides, required 4,800 hours under the old method of a ruler and a quill but under the modern

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism and Serious Diseases Follow

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and wornout feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected, may develop into the deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles for the new discovery, Hindipo, promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Hindipo a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly reach the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble or rheumatism.

You will find Hindipo different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Hindipo should fail in a single case. 50c a box at Johnson's Pharmacy. STORK IS BUSY IN BRAINERD

Brings Six Babies to Northwestern Hospital and Five to St. Joseph's Hospital

THE BOYS PREDOMINATING

There Were Never So Many Babies at Either Hospital Before—All Pretty June Babies

The stork has had a busy time of it in this lovely month of June. The old bird has flapped his wings and hovered around Brainerd and in his travels deposited six babies at the Northwestern hospital and five at the St. Joseph's hospital, making each a nursery center.

In this list of new citizens of Brainerd, nine are boys and two girls. When interviewed, they had little time for talk, being busily engaged as all babies are when at this tender age. Each snuggles closely to mother and refused to say a single word for publication. Never have so many pretty babies been seen at either hospital.

At the Northwestern hospital is a happy group including Mrs. Oscar Swanson and baby boy, Mrs. Wilber Smith and baby boy, Mrs. John Zander and baby boy, Mrs. Sam Hawkins and baby girl, Mrs. Bert Kylo and baby boy, Mrs. William Rodenkirchen and baby girl.

At the St. Joseph's hospital one sees another joyous, little group which includes Mrs. L. Chagre, of Minneapolis, and baby son; Mrs. Paul G. Clarkson and baby boy; Mrs. Erick Anderson and baby boy; Mrs. J. J. Nehl and baby boy; Mrs. Carl Orrill, of Motley, and baby boy.

And the respective fathers are very proud about the accessions to their households and are waiting to give mother a great welcome when she joins the family circle.

RICE WINS MATCH

Gets First Fall From John Anderson in 7 Minutes by a Waist Hold and Hammerlock

Harvey Rice won his wrestling match from John Anderson and maintained his reputation of being the unconquerable champion of the Cuyuna range. When the men weighed in at the Vernon gymnasium on Wednesday evening, Rice tipped the scales at 148 pounds and Anderson, of Brainerd, weighed 172 pounds.

A fair sized crowd was seated about the mat and enjoyed every phase of the battle. At the call of time Rice went for his antagonist and forced the work from the start. This much may be said for Anderson, that he caused Rice the hardest work of any match he has ever been in.

Rice tried for hammerlocks and Anderson kept breaking these holds. Rice picked him up bodily and threw Anderson down on his shoulders, hurting him at the time. Rice eventually secured his much desired hammerlock and threw Anderson in just 7 minutes.

The second fall was gained by a crotch hold and Anderson had both shoulders pinned to the mat in 5 seconds.

Anderson put up a game fight in the first round, but was clearly vanquished in the second fall. After the match Rice and Ed. Pelkey gave a 10 minutes exhibition of wrestling, one of the fastest ever seen in Brainerd, no fall being recorded.

Ed. Pelkey refereed the big match. Bud Robideau, of Pine River, manager of Nick Jones, one of the best men in the country, challenged the winner. Jones boasts a reputation of never having been thrown. He is 22 years old and weighs 165 pounds stripped. If terms can be satisfactorily arranged, the match will take place in Brainerd.

DEATH OF VETERAN

Peter Edward Peterson Passed Away Last Night at His Home on Round Lake

Peter Edward Peterson, aged 62, a veteran of the Civil war, passed away at his home on Round lake on Wednesday evening, death being due to a complication of diseases.

The old soldier suffered patiently and his strong spirit met death unflinchingly. Surrounded by members of his family and his faithful wife, he recognized the different children. With the word of "Mother" on his lips he looked in the eyes of his faithful helpmate, pressed her hand, and passed to the great beyond, summoned to the last muster roll by his Maker.

He had been sick for months, but not a word of complaint was heard from his lips. Toward the end he took to his bed. The best medical skill was unable to check the ravages of disease.

He leaves a wife and 12 children. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. W. J. Lowrie officiating.

The sympathy of the community is extended the family in its sad bereavement.

DEPOT LOOKS GOOD

Painters Finish Their Job of Decorating and Outside Painting at N. P. Depot

The Northern Pacific railway depot looks as bright as a meadow daisy after receiving several coats of paint from a corps of painters who made the body color dark red and the trimmer one of green. The painters left this evening for West Duluth where another depot is to be renovated.

The interior of the depot has also been thoroughly renovated and decorated and presents as good an appearance as the exterior.

But the new closets and the check room, something greatly needed, have not made their appearance. These were promised by the railway company in line with the plastering and painting. The closets and the check room should be added at the earliest possible moment.

Gets First Fall From John Anderson in 7 Minutes by a Waist Hold and Hammerlock

Harvey Rice won his wrestling match from John Anderson and maintained his reputation of being the unconquerable champion of the Cuyuna range. When the men weighed in at the Vernon gymnasium on Wednesday evening, Rice tipped the scales at 148 pounds and Anderson, of Brainerd, weighed 172 pounds.

A fair sized crowd was seated about the mat and enjoyed every phase of the battle. At the call of time Rice went for his antagonist and forced the work from the start. This much may be said for Anderson, that he caused Rice the hardest work of any match he has ever been in.

Rice tried for hammerlocks and Anderson kept breaking these holds. Rice picked him up bodily and threw Anderson down on his shoulders, hurting him at the time. Rice eventually secured his much desired hammerlock and threw Anderson in just 7 minutes.

The second fall was gained by a crotch hold and Anderson had both shoulders pinned to the mat in 5 seconds.

Anderson put up a game fight in the first round, but was clearly vanquished in the second fall. After the match Rice and Ed. Pelkey gave a 10 minutes exhibition of wrestling, one of the fastest ever seen in Brainerd, no fall being recorded.

Ed. Pelkey refereed the big match. Bud Robideau, of Pine River, manager of Nick Jones, one of the best men in the country, challenged the winner. Jones boasts a reputation of never having been thrown. He is 22 years old and weighs 165 pounds stripped. If terms can be satisfactorily arranged, the match will take place in Brainerd.

DEATH OF VETERAN

Peter Edward Peterson Passed Away Last Night at His Home on Round Lake

Peter Edward Peterson, aged 62, a veteran of the Civil war, passed away at his home on Round lake on Wednesday evening, death being due to a complication of diseases.

The old soldier suffered patiently and his strong spirit met death unflinchingly. Surrounded by members of his family and his faithful wife, he recognized the different children. With the word of "Mother" on his lips he looked in the eyes of his faithful helpmate, pressed her hand, and passed to the great beyond, summoned to the last muster roll by his Maker.

He had been sick for months, but not a word of complaint was heard from his lips. Toward the end he took to his bed. The best medical skill was unable to check the ravages of disease.

He leaves a wife and 12 children. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. W. J. Lowrie officiating.

The sympathy of the community is extended the family in its sad bereavement.

DEPOT LOOKS GOOD

Painters Finish their Job of Decorating and Outside Painting at N. P. Depot

The Northern Pacific railway depot looks as bright as a meadow daisy after receiving several coats of paint from a corps of painters who made the body color dark red and the trimmer one of green. The painters left this evening for West Duluth where another depot is to be renovated.

The interior of the depot has also been thoroughly renovated and decorated and presents as good an appearance as the exterior.

But the new closets and the check room, something greatly needed, have not made their appearance. These were promised by the railway company in line with the plastering and painting. The closets and the check room should be added at the earliest possible moment.

OCEAN TRIPPERS ARE BIG EATERS

One Company Paid $4,920,000 For Food Last Year.

COAL BILL WAS $7,376,735.

Seasickness Seems to Have No Deterrent on Appetites of Transatlantic Travelers or Figures Show Nothing. Fish and Game Alone For One Big Line Cost $652,020.

In these days, when the high cost of living is so much in the public mind, when the bills of the butcher, the grocer and the coal man threaten to disrupt the family happiness and bring the sheriff knocking at the door, it is interesting to know what it costs a steamship company to provide the necessities of life to the hordes of passengers who cross and recross the Atlantic. The annual statement of one big company for 1912, just issued, throws some interesting light on the subject and may possibly make one's own monthly statement seem small in comparison.

Last year this company's bill for provisions alone was $4,920,000, while during the same period the coal man was paid $7,376,735 for 1,758,740 tons of coal which were shoveled into the maws of the ships' furnaces during the twelve months. For these two items alone—provisions and coal—the company paid the enormous sum of $12,296,735, and the greater part of this fortune dropped into the coffers of Uncle Sam.

Cost of Provisions.

That seasickness does not always interfere with the appetite of ocean travelers is evidenced by this expenditure of almost $5,000,000 for provisions. The butcher, as usual, reaped the greatest harvest in the matter of provisions, his bill to the steamship company in question for the year being $1,685,000. For the former the company paid an additional $239,000, while the bill for game amounted to $412,800, a total of $652,020. These two items, added to the bill for meat proper, brought the amount up to $2,337,020.

In our household expenditures we are not likely to pay much attention to the cost of preserves, and yet the same steamship company already mentioned spent $255,760 for these sweets alone during the year. The bill for fresh vegetables amounted to $128,110, while for "sundries," including bread, flour, spices, fruits and the thousand and one articles that are used in the kitchen, the company paid $1,688,800.

Tons of Potatoes.

More potatoes were consumed during the year than any other single article, the total amount having been 17,875,873 pounds. Flour ranked next with 6,313,152 pounds, fresh beef third with 5,769,134 pounds, while the bread was fourth with 2,353,083 pounds.

The passengers consumed 7,008,500 eggs, 4,271,060 oranges and lemons, 707,625 pounds of onions and 983,802 pounds of salt. They used 465,340 pounds of coffee and 41,729 pounds of tea and 529,619 cans of sterilized milk, to say nothing of 14,918 bottles of fresh cream.

It was necessary to provide 19,119,242 pounds of ice to keep things cool and 12,067 boxes of matches for fires and "lights." In the bakeshops 83,651 pounds of yeast were used, while the quantity of butter necessary during the year was 1,056,067 pounds.

PAIR LIVE ON 4 CENTS A DAY.

Only Need Home and a Small Farm, They Say.

Marcus M. Wood, seventy-three years old, and his wife of Webster, Mass., have lived for nearly three months on 4 cents a day. Wood says, he feels better physically for it. The couple say $1,000 insures a person a comfortable and healthy living throughout life, besides a small bank account.

To live on the 4 cents a day scale, Wood says, there should be obtained a home and a small piece of land on which to raise vegetables. The Webster couple raise their own vegetables, which are used in the following menu: Breakfast, doughnuts and bread, fried Indian meal, pudding, butter, and grape jelly; dinner, potatoes, buckwheat pudding, tomato soup, grape jelly, bread and butter, doughnuts, cracked wheat and milk; supper, buckwheat cakes and gravy, butter, plum jelly, cracked wheat and tea.

Effective Reflecting.

"No, no!" retorted the diplomatic young man. "One whose dazzling beauty makes a mirror ashamed of itself should never go into the reflecting business. Let this solitary diamond do the reflecting."

THIS DOG'S MENU COSTLY.

Animal Chews Up $75 In Bills and Scatters Silver.

While Howard Wilkinson, representing an express company, was closing up business with a brewing company in Wheeling, W. Va., a stray dog ran into the office, picked up his purse, containing $75 in bills and $40 in silver, and dashed down the street.

A long chase by a crowd followed, and the dog was finally rounded up in a clump of woods just outside the city. When the purse was recovered it was open and the silver had disappeared. Most of the bills had been chewed beyond recognition.

The scraps of the bills were gathered together and will be sent to the treasury in Washington in the hope that a part of the money may be recovered.

First Run on a Bank.

The first "run" on a banking institution in London was in 1667. Many Lombard street goldsmiths and bankers had lent out the money entrusted to them and, being called upon for payment, were unable to meet the demand. A crowd of creditors and others assembled, and a riot followed. In which four bankers were hanged at their own doors before order could be restored and the angry creditors persuaded that they were not being swindled.

Japanese Color Education.

In Japan only a blind child could be insensible to color after long days under the pink mist of the cherry blossoms and the crimson glory of the maples in the sunny green and yellow fields or with mountain slopes of wild azalea for a romping place and a wonderful sky of blue for a cover. By inheritance and environment he is an artist in the use of color. Form, too, is as easy, for when crude toys have failed to please it is his privilege to build ships, castles, gunboats and temples with every conceivable household article from the spinning wheel to the family rice bucket.—Frances Little in Century.

WON BY A DOLL.

A Gift That Brought the Rebellious Apaches to Terms.

Major Bourke, as aid to General Crook, once showed himself an effective peacemaker. He persuaded a band of Apaches to go back to their reservation by presenting a doll to a papoose. The incident was as follows:

General Crook had been trying to put these Apaches back on the reserve, but could not catch them without killing them, an action that did not appeal to him. One day his forces captured a papoose and took her to the fort. She was quiet all day, but her black eyes watched everything. When night came the child broke down and sobbed just as any white youngster might.

The fort was in despair until Major Bourke had an idea. From the adjutant's wife he borrowed a doll that had come to her little girl the previous Christmas. When the young Apache understood that it was hers to keep her sobbed ceased and she fell asleep.

When morning came the doll was still clasped tightly in her arms. She played with it all day, and seemingly all thought of ever getting back to the tribe had left her.

Several days passed with no sign of overtune being made by the tribe, and finally in despair the papoose, with the doll still in her possession, was sent back. When the child reached the tribe with the prize grasped in her chubby hands it created a sensation among the native Americans, and her mother later went back to the post with it. She was received in a hospitable manner and kindly treated, and the effect of her visit was such that through her overtures were made, with the result that soon afterward the entire band moved back on the reserve.—St. Louis Republic.

The Money Tennyson Made.

Lord Tennyson made a great income from his poems. When Strahan & Co. took over the publication of the poems in the sixties they agreed to pay Tennyson $25,000 a year in respect to the books already issued and pay the poet all profits on new work, less a modest 10 per cent commission. This second item generally meant $30,000 for each new volume. For many years before his death Tennyson drew a steady $50,000 per annum from his publishers.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Hindipo, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly.

It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Hindipo is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

For these two items alone—provisions and coal—the company paid the enormous sum of $12,296,735, and the greater part of this fortune dropped into the coffers of Uncle Sam.

Cost of Provisions.

That seasickness does not always interfere with the appetite of ocean travelers is evidenced by this expenditure of almost $5,000,000 for provisions. The butcher, as usual, reaped the greatest harvest in the matter of provisions, his bill to the steamship company in question for the year being $1,685,000. This does not include fish and game. For the former the company paid an additional $239,000, while the bill for game amounted to $412,800, a total of $652,020. These two items, added to the bill for meat proper, brought the amount up to $2,337,020.

In our household expenditures we are not likely to pay much attention to the cost of preserves, and yet the same steamship company already mentioned spent $255,700 for these sweets alone during the year. The bill for fresh vegetables amounted to $128,110, while for "sundries," including bread, flour, spices, fruits and the thousand and one articles that are used in the kitchen, the company paid $1,688,800.

Tons of Potatoes.

More potatoes were consumed during the year than any other single article, the total amount having been 17,875,873 pounds. Flour ranked next with 6,313,152 pounds, fresh beef third with 5,769,134 pounds, while the bread was fourth with 2,353,083 pounds.

The passengers consumed 7,008,500 eggs, 4,271,059 oranges and lemons, 707,625 pounds of onions and 983,802 pounds of salt. They used 465,340 pounds of coffee and 41,729 pounds of tea and 529,619 cans of sterilized milk, to say nothing of 14,918 bottles of fresh cream.

It was necessary to provide 19,119,242 pounds of ice to keep things cool and 12,097 boxes of matches for fires and "lights." In the bakeshops 83,651 pounds of yeast were used, while the quantity of butter necessary during the year was 1,056,057 pounds.

PAIR LIVE ON 4 CENTS A DAY.

Only Need Home and a Small Farm, They Say.

Marcus M. Wood, seventy-three years old, and his wife of Webster, Mass., have lived for nearly three months on 4 cents a day. Wood says he feels better physically for it. The couple say $1,000 insures a person a comfortable and healthy living throughout life, besides a small bank account.

To live on the 4 cent a day scale, Wood says, there should be obtained a home and a small piece of land on which to raise vegetables. The Webster couple raise their own vegetables, which are used in the following menu: Breakfast, doughnuts and bread, fried Indian meal, pudding, butter and grape jelly; dinner, potatoes, buckwheat pudding, tomato soup, grape jelly, bread and butter, doughnuts, cracked wheat and milk; supper, buckwheat cakes and gravy, butter, plum jelly, cracked wheat and tea.

Effective Reflecting.

"No, no!" retorted the diplomatic young man. "One whose dazzling beauty makes a mirror ashamed of itself should never go into the reflecting business. Let this solitary diamond do the reflecting."

And the records of the license clerk show that it was even so.

THIS DOG'S MENU COSTLY.

Animal Chews Up $75 In Bills and Scatters Silver.

While Howard Wilkinson, representing an express company, was closing up business with a brewing company in Wheeling, W. Va., a stray dog ran into the office, picked up his purse, containing $75 in bills and $40 in silver, and dashed down the street.

A long chase by a crowd followed, and the dog was finally rounded up in a clump of woods just outside the city. When the purse was recovered it was open and the silver had disappeared. Most of the bills had been chewed beyond recognition.

The scraps of the bills were gathered together and will be sent to the treasury in Washington in the hope that a part of the money may be recovered.

First Run on a Bank.

The first "run" on banking institutions in London was in 1667. Many Lombard street goldsmiths and bankers had lent out the money entrusted to them and, being called upon for payment, were unable to meet the demand. A crowd of creditors and others assembled, and a riot followed, in which four bankers were banged at their own doors before order could be restored and the angry creditors persuaded that they were not being swindled.

WON BY A DOLL.

A Gift That Brought the Rebellious Apaches to Terms.

Major Bourke, as aid to General Crook, once showed himself an effective peacemaker. He persuaded a band of Apaches to go back to their reservation by presenting a doll to a papoose. The incident was as follows:

General Crook had been trying to put these Apaches back on the reserve, but could not catch them without killing them, an action that did not appeal to him. One day his forces captured a papoose and took her to the fort. She was quiet all day, but her black eyes watched everything. When night came the child broke down and sobbed just as any white youngster might.

The fort was in despair until Major Bourke had an idea. From the adjutant's wife he borrowed a doll that had come to her little girl the previous Christmas. When the young Apache understood that it was hers to keep her sob ceased and she fell asleep.

When morning came the doll was still clasped tightly in her arms. She played with it all day, and seemingly all thought of ever getting back to the tribe had left her.

Several days passed with no sign of overture being made by the tribe, and finally in despair the papoose, with the doll still in her possession, was sent back. When the child reached the tribe with the prize grasped in her chubby hands it created a sensation among the native Americans, and her mother later went back to the post with it. She was received in a hospitable manner and kindly treated, and the effect of her visit was such that through her overtures were made, with the result that soon afterward the entire band moved back on the reserve.—St. Louis Republic.

The Money Tennyson Made.

Lord Tennyson made a great income from his poems. When Strahan & Co. took over the publication of the poems in the sixties they agreed to pay Tennyson $25,000 a year in respect to the books already issued and pay the poet all profits on new work, less a modest 10 per cent commission. This second item generally meant $30,000 for each new volume. For many years before his death Tennyson drew a steady $50,000 per annum from his publishers.

DO YOU GROW STRONG?

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards. They simply unveil them to the eyes of men. Silently and imperceptibly, as we wake or sleep, we grow and wax strong, we grow and wax weak, and at last some crisis shows us what we have become.—Caeson Westcott.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY MISERIES

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Hindipo, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly.

It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Hindipo is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.
